Therefore they cease to have force on 12th February 1915, 23rd March 1915 and 24th ~~September~~ March 1915 respectively. If it is desired to keep these Regulations in force for a longer period they have to be regularly placed before the Legislative Council and passed into law.

4) The three drafts now submitted have to be passed at an early date. The Emergency Regns which they are intended to supersede will have the force of law only for 6 months from the respective dates on which they received the assent of His Excellency.

5) The next meeting of the Council has been arranged for the 21st of November. So it is not likely another meeting of the Council will be held before the 12th of February. If approved, these drafts Bills will be published under Rule 32; the rule of business may be suspended on motion under S 66 of the Rules, and the Bills may be passed at the next meeting of the Council.

6) As regards the drafting, the Bills only some verbal alterations are made. It is expected that in British India, the ordinances will be superseded by regular enactments very early. Also the ordinances will have effect only for 6 months. Amendments in the Preamble and in S (1) provisions made so that the British Act may apply automatically here. This will obviate further drastic legislative action on our part.
